Alfa Laval wins SEK 170 million offshore order

Alfa Laval – a world leader in heat transfer, centrifugal separation and fluid handling – has won an order to supply Framo pumping systems and emergency generators to an oil platform in the North Sea. The order has a value of approximately SEK 170 million. It is booked in the Pumping Systems unit of the Marine Division, with deliveries scheduled for 2018.

The order comprises offshore pumping systems and generators that will be part of the platform safety and emergency power systems to the oil platform in the North Sea.

“Safety is of utmost importance on an offshore oil platform, and our equipment plays a vital role in securing reliable supporting systems, says Peter Leifland, President of the Marine Division. “The order proves that we can meet the high demands of safety from the customers in the offshore industry.”

Did you know that... fire water pumps on offshore oil platforms need to be very robust and reliable to work under extreme conditions – and that Framo pumping systems have been used in the offshore industry since the 1970's?
