Alfa Laval wins SEK 100 million offshore pumping systems order from Maersk Oil

Alfa Laval – a world leader in heat transfer, centrifugal separation and fluid handling – has won an order to supply Framo pumping systems to an oil platform in the UK. The order, booked in the Marine & Offshore Pumping Systems segment, has a value of approximately SEK 100 million and delivery is scheduled for 2016.

The order comprises fire water pumping systems for an oil platform operated by Maersk Oil which is located outside Aberdeen in the North Sea.

“I am pleased to announce this large order for our Framo pumping systems to one of the major players in the offshore oil and gas industry,” says Lars Renström, President and CEO of the Alfa Laval Group. “The Framo product range has broadened our portfolio of reliable products well-suited for the demanding applications in the oil and gas industry.”
